The traditional office location is characterised by its close proximity to the central railway station, the cathedral and the city centre. A wide range of industries has meanwhile settled in the Banking Quarter, in addition to the archdiocese, Deutscher Städtetag (Association of German Cities), the Chamber of Industry and Commerce and the traditional banking companies. With the construction of Dominiun and various properties being revitalised, the Banking Quarter has managed to keep up with Cologne's "new" locations, without sacrificing its distinct characteristics. A number of further refurbishments are yet to come.

The development of the Rheinauhafen area from a transshipment hub into a cutting-edge city centre district featuring residential, commercial and office space is now complete. With its award winning architecture, well-known residents and high-end rents, Cologne's "new" waterfront location has been well-established in Cologne's office space market right from the start. Not only the Kranhäuser but also the other buildings along the shore are considered to be characteristic elements of Cologne's riverside panorama. Renowned tenants have settled in the area as a result and the level of rental prices is accordingly high.

Average rental range: 14.00 – 20.00 €/m²

Ø Annual turnover: 8,000 m²

Available space: 1,000 m²

Rheinufer Nord is a popular location for office space, due to its close proximity to the cathedral and the central train station, its waterfront location on the bank of the Rhine and its sophisticated architecture. The area between the train station and Theodor-Heuss-Ring in particular, has been subject to significant upgrading, owing to the refurbishment projects Neue Direktion, Rheinpalais and RheinAtrium and the construction of 21st as well as the extension of Bank für Sozialwirtschaft on the corner of Konrad-Adenauer-Ufer and Wörthstrasse. The planned restructuring of the site to the east of Breslauer Platz is the final major component of this overall positive development and certainly the most important one.

Ring Karree

Average rental range: 11.00 – 19.00 €/m²

Ø Annual turnover: 22,000 m²

Available space: 44,000 m²

Cologne's former prestigious city centre boulevards are now a mixed quality office district in the city's left bank city centre. The Ringe area includes Cologne's semi-circular roads from Theodor-Heuss-Ring to the north through to Ubierring to the south, as well as the associated city squares. Particular mention should be made of Kaiser-Wilhelm-Ring, a section that is characterised by numerous high-quality buildings. The area is home to well-known companies such as the reinsurance company Scor and Allianz who have chosen the location for their long-term premises. With high demand for space in city centre locations and the existing stock buildings from the 1950s to 1980s, there are still great opportunities for revitalisation and new construction projects. The development of Rudolfplatz and Friesenplatz is of particular significance in this context.

Smaller structures and a stronger emphasis on residential use are typical characteristics of the southern part of the city centre. However, the completed examples of C30 and Waidmarkt show that bigger scale construction projects are also feasible and in demand. The area of Innenstadt Süd further includes Neumarkt, one of the city centre's busiest traffic hubs. In direct vicinity, there are a number of museums and cultural facilities. Albert Speer's urban development plan provides for a redesigning of the square in order for it to be joined more effectively to the pedestrian area of Schildergasse.
